Vol. 43

No. 3

September 8, 1978

In the past 3 years we have witnessed the painful struggle for survival within this community. Thanks to the efforts and concerns of Pam Wetula and Sue Sommer, the CARBON has been revived with a new sense of dignity; demanding respect from the administration and faculty and students alike.

It is our desire to continue this responsible reporting of student activities, and spotlight legitimate existing problem areas in the academic, and living environments in this community.

Since the passing of the Phoenix, we shall attempt to incorporate the reports of varsity activities and standings as well as student features, until time and interest raises the Phoenix from the ashes once again.

We hope specific duties involved in the production of this weekly publication are filled by competent, interested students.

To accomplish these goals we need to enlarge our staff. We are looking for typists, reporters, and artists in particular, and hope to delegate responsibilities in a manner which facilitates these goals without a weekly commitment on the students' part. In this way, you would devote an hour or two each month. And everyone can enjoy a new variety in this paper.

So, if you are an intelligent, responsible, and service minded individual who appreciates the value in sharing time and interests with others please come to the CARBON meeting next week, Wednesday, September 13 at 8:30 p.m. in the CARBON office, across from the cafe.

TO THE MASSES...

Up until 4 to 5 years ago, the Marian College Booster Club was a highly structured, vital organization on campus. Over the past few years the purpose of Booster Club has become unclear, in the eyes of both the College community and the members themselves. This year's officers have revised the Constitution in the hopes of returning the club to the vital and structured organization it once was.

Booster Club will be composed of the officers, the general membership, and the Functional Board. The purpose of the Functional Board shall be to act as representatives of the classes and organizations and to report to them the functions and activities of Booster Club.

Each class shall elect nominees to the Functional Board. From these nominees, the officers will select four representatives to serve on the Board. MCAPHER, the Cheerleaders, the DSA, and Alumni shall also have a representative.

The elections for class nominees will be on Friday, September 13 in Marian Hall.

In closing, the officers would like to stress the importance of these positions. Keep in mind these students will be representing you in decisions concerning Homecoming and Field Day.

SENIOR CLASS MEETING MINUTES

The senior class has had two meetings this year, one on August 30 and one September 6. A variety of topics were discussed.

The Sadie Hawkins Dance is scheduled for the last weekend of October, and will not be limited to girl-ask-guy.

Homecoming Week is November 5-11; we don't know the specific date of the Gong Show yet, but are looking for more faculty involvement this year. It was mentioned that we hope to have the senior party at the Latvian Center again.

Senior pictures for the yearbook will be taken by Tiffany's of Indianapolis, from September 19-23. There is a $5.00 sitting fee, which can be used toward the purchase of prints, or refunded if none are bought. The junior class asked for help in sponsoring a concert, either Roadmaster or Faith Band, (continued on page 3)

condensed from THE BLUE ROSE by Gerda Klein

Jenny is a little girl - a lovely little girl. She has brown eyes and dark brown hair.

If her hair falls into her eyes, she brushes it away. But her hand does not go straight to her forehead.

Instead, it curves around like a flower first opening its petals. Then she brushes her hair out of her eyes.

You see, Jenny is different. Different? Yes different from most other little girls.

But surely all people don't have to be alike.

To me, Jenny is like a BLUE ROSE.

A BLUE ROSE?

Have you ever seen a BLUE ROSE? There are white roses and pink roses and yellow roses and of course a lot of red roses. But blue?

Every gardener would love to raise a BLUE ROSE. People would come from far away to see it. It would be rare, and different, and beautiful.

Jenny is different too. And so, in a way, she is like a BLUE ROSE.

When Jenny first came home from the hospital - a pink baby, all cuddly and round - she cried very often. She cried more than most babies.

Why?

Well, perhaps she saw different shadows that frightened her. Perhaps she heard sounds that were strange to her. When she was older, Jenny always stayed close to her mother and held on to her tightly.

You know, when a kitten loses its tail it is said to gain sharper ears. It is true that a tail helps a kitten run faster. But a kitten without a tail hears better, and can detect approaching footsteps long before other kittens do.

Some people don't know about such a kitten's fine ears; they only see the lack of a tail.

Some children are cruel and stare and taunt: "The kitten has no tail! The kitten has no tail!"

Sometimes, Jenny would run up to her mother and clutch her tightly for no apparent reason at all. At least, for none that we could see.

And so we came to understand that Jenny's world was a little different, unknown to us in some ways. We began to think that she was in a world in which we might not feel completely at home. To go there might be like going to another planet.

It's as if Jenny is standing behind a screen, a screen we cannot see. Maybe it has beautiful colors. Maybe the colors distract Jenny at times from paying attention when we talk to her. Or perhaps she listens to music we cannot hear. It is said that fish have a language and a music of their own, carried by the waves. Music we cannot hear because our ears are not fine enough.

So Jenny might hear sounds we never hear. Maybe that is why she jumps up at times and goes into an awkward dance.

I sometimes think that Jenny is like a bird with very short wings. For such a bird flying is hard: it takes more strength, more effort, more time.

A bird with normal wings takes flying for granted, but a bird with short wings has to work much harder at learning. In a way, it has to be smarter.

Therefore, we have to understand how much Jenny has accomplished when she does learn something.

But there is another Jenny. A Jenny who on a stormy winter afternoon sits in her little rocking chair alone and rocks holding her doll in her arms. She is very troubled and puzzled and she says slowly, "Mommy, Sally says I'm retarded. What does that mean mommy? Retarded?" The children say retarded and laugh. Why do they laugh mommy?"

There are many things Jenny does not understand. And there are many things people don't understand about Jenny. That Jenny is like a kitten without a tail; that Jenny hears a different music; that Jenny is like a bird with shorter wings, and has to be protected.

Jenny is like a BLUE ROSE, delicate and lovely. And because there are so few BLUE ROSES, we don't know much about them. We only know that they have to be tended to more carefully. And loved more.

My Blue Rose is my brother, Bradley Poett.

SEE PETER REPORTS...

Bonjour, creeps. C. Peter here, among others. Big news on the theatre front! Gregory Bauer (Class of '77) is starring in "Pippin" at the Black Curtain! Also in the cast is Linda Leonard, a lady of formidable talents. We salute them and wish them luck. Go! See! Enjoy! Spend!

On the home front: "I Never Saw Another Butterfly" a Sister Francesca Production, flaunts a cast including Ann Hammond, Pamela Wetula, Jill Krider, Vicki Gioscio, Bryan Cunningham, and others too unknown to mention. As soon as this reportrix sees the cast list, he'll fill you in.

Bette and Margo and Ben are alive and well, though living in Indy. Ben and Margo got a divorce, so there's no chance of seeing them together at a party these days. The Baths, yes. Party, no. (Aye don't see what be wrong. I just tell her she too old for Ben. She almost 16 years! - Ben) (Actually, I'm much older, if you don't include the face-and-other lifts, the hormones, and the sheep gland injections-Margo) (Don't worry, we never have counted them, darrhling!-Bette) (Get to sleep!) - Sr. Elizabeth John)

C. Peter (Live and in person, one night only!)

SEPT'. 18 - 23
ALLISON MANSION
TIFFANY STUDIOS - $5 DEPOSIT
APPOINTMENTS: MRS. WATER'S OFFICE

Senior pictures for the Marian '79 are scheduled for Sept. 18-23. Arrangements have been made with the owner of Tiffany Studios, Mr. Gary Yohler, a Marian graduate and Alumni officer.

Any senior expecting to be recorded in the '79 yearbook as having graduated must have his/her picture taken at this time. All yearbook portraits will have a consistent plain background, a convention meant to draw attention to the person and lend a sense of order to the yearbook itself. To have all of these pictures photographed in the same week means yearbook deadlines can be met on time!

The carved wood interior of Allison Mansion will be the background for additional portraits. The five dollar deposit will be deducted from any order placed with Mr. Yohler, or will be refunded in the event that no order is placed. The yearbook picture (blue backdrop) must be chosen.

Please remember, if you have made arrangements with any other photographers, we still want your yearbook portrait taken by Mr. Yohler. Unless it is taken in the designated week, the yearbook staff cannot promise it will be published in the Marian.

Mr. Yohler has promised that proofs will be returned to you within ten (10) days and that your order can be filled within four (4) weeks of the day you return the proofs to him.

What do we think of the outdoor shots taken by Dr. Appleby? We think they are beautiful! We recommend his outdoor portraits if you choose not to have additional pictures taken by Mr. Yohler. However for yearbook purposes we need consistency and a tight schedule. Therefore the arrangements with Tiffany Studios.

You might also like to know that part of these arrangements with Tiffany include: "at cost" printing, processing and enlarging of yearbook pictures; professional photographer for those "hard-to-get shots and times. Already Mr. Yohler has spent several evenings with the yearbook staff and advisors.

If you have any questions, please direct them to Eileen Herbertz or to me.

The appointment sheets are in Mrs. Water's office now.
